

Tech, Big Pharma And A Few Others What's Next?

Fantasy Free Economics, James Quillian

Posted on September 2, 2020 by Fantasy Free Economics

When it happens, someone will say, there is no way we could have known. So, I am going to tell you ahead of time what is going to happen.

So, many ask, why are stock skyrocketing while the country is falling apart?.

There is this thing called the overall scheme of things. When dealing with large aggregations of people, what happens in one situation is related to what happens in a number of others. Do you remember a short while back when tech CEO's testified before congress? They faced some tough questions. They were run through the ringer and even being publically humiliated. Have you heard anything about what happens next as a result of the investigations?. No, and you don't because it was all an act. Congress got to make themselves look good and the tech executives were insured that absolutely nothing was going to be done to them.

Notice that select groups of stocks are skyrocketing into the stratosphere while the economy is crumbling from the bottom up. Supposedly, mom. pop and the Robinhoods are suddenly going berserk mindlessly driving these stock to super unrealistic levels. Don't bet on that being anywhere near to completely true. It is the ALGOs creating the sudden magically dynamic uptrends. If amateurs are driving the market up it is because the paths of least resistance have been purposefully created for them. The ALGO's jump start the uptrends, then purposefully make sure Robinhoods traders make initial profits. That way they will be available for the next round and so one.

In the mean time, analyst after analyst is citing indicators based on technical analysis that show that this is going to end and probably end soon. Supply will never just exceed demand and cause the market to drop. Nothing like that will happen.

The economy is going to crumble no matter what. The goal is to make sure stocks in the industries mentioned actually gain value until absolutely no more value can be added. When all starts coming apart, that is when the deal will come onto the table. I have already conjectured that the techs and others mentioned will actually be bought with government funds, permanently empowering and enriching the same tech executives who were grilled by congress for the purpose of a show. The other industries mentioned will be part of the same deal. How will the public react? The public will be purposefully scared to the point where they will go along with anything. When an entire country puts masks on like clowns without doubting reasons for having them do so, don't expect them to smarten up anytime soon.

Could anything go wrong with the plan? Yes, the public could get completely untrusting and make the plan impossible to execute. It is human nature to move to the center of the herd when under stress and cry out for more help from government.

Chances are that what eventually happens will not be exactly what I am predicting. It will be in the ball park. The stock market is being purposefully elevated. Stocks in the anointed industries I mention are being purposefully elevated. Hopefully I will still be around to tell you, "I told you so,." If I end up being wrong, please let me know. I promise. I won't be offended.